ABOUT ME

I am a passionate Computer Science student and MERN stack developer focused on building full-featured web and mobile apps.
 I've successfully launched Ebookshub, a reading platform available as both a website and mobile app.
 I'm currently developing Talko, a real-time chat application, with plans to release its mobile version

PROJECTS

EbooksHub (Web and Mobile app)

Developer

A secure reading platform to upload and explore books with email verification, recommendations, and stats like Top Reads and Top Liked.
 Available on web and mobile, it's built for readers and writers to connect through stories.

Talko (Web and Mobile app)

Developer

A real-time private chat app with friend request control, letting users choose who to connect with.
 Currently in development with more features coming by August/September.
